To Whom It May Concern:

I've just recently finished my fifth project with CalAsia Construction and enthusiastically recommend them for many reasons. First, the principle, John, has a strong commitment to each project he undertakes, as well as knowledge, and experience that has benefited each of my projects. He and his teams have proven to be dependable and reliable as a contractor. Their leadership and management skills have been an added benefit to my organization. And, they have shown integrity in a notoriously difficult and challenging field.

CalAsia has become my contractor of choice. I have experienced working with several commercial contractors, developers, and project management firms; all have fallen short in comparison to CalAsia regarding expectations of time scheduling, budgets, and overall satisfaction. They have the unique ability to grasp and control all the moving parts of very complex projects.

I would highly recommend CalAsia Construction to any organization. They understand what it takes to maintain a successful relationship with their customers. They have provided the resources and expertise that allows me to confidently turn to them for future projects.

Sincerely,

Jonathan Rollo
