

From: Cory Grosser <cory@corygrosser.com>
Sent: Friday, March 31, 2017 4:29 PM

John,

I wanted to send a big thank you to you and the entire Calasia team for helping bring our studio's vision to reality with two successful back to back projects. The first project, a high-end rapid prototyping lab for the tech company, Supplyframe, and the second project a retail store in the Los Angeles Public Library, were both completed with utmost care. Our modern and minimal style of design requires a high level of craft and detailing, and Calasia has always been up to the task. The entire team showed professionalism and a collaborative spirit throughout both projects. When difficult situations arose, as they always do, Calasia was quick to help us resolve them as smoothly and efficiently as possible. Our clients are happy with their respective spaces and they have received many compliments on the execution. We look forward to working together again soon.

Sincerely,

Cory Grosser

Cory Grosser + Associates